RIVER VIEW HAS SECOND CHANCE

The defeat of the zoning proposal on Monday evening was a major victory against the zoning law which would destroy this view. Mattapoisett's river is not only the source of our water but is a completely unspoiled panorama. This river is history. The Indians, who chipped away at arrowheads beside this stream, would still recognize this spot. It is still possible to find the chips on these banks. Whalers were built here and floated down the river to New Bedford for outfitting and then journeyed around the globe.

To zone both banks of this river for a complex of motels and stores is an idea that would raise the hackles on any person who loves this town.

Our most valuable resource is the natural beauty of the town. This extends along our river and all around our natural harbor. To destroy any part of this heritage is unthinkable. If these banks had been zoned for General Business we would forceably spoil our lower river. It is irreplaceable.

4 SNAKE BITES REPORTED IN MATTAPOISETT

Mattapoisett's Police Chief Alden Kinney has issued a warning to all parents in the wake of a batch of recent complaints. A boy from the Park Street area was bitten on his hand by a snake which reportedly drew up and struck. Dr. Davis Gallison, surgeon at Tobey Hospital, Wareham, removed the fangs from the boy's hand which had swollen badly. The fangs have been sent to a laboratory for analysis to determine how dangerous the bite from this snake might be. In a second report, a lady residing on Park Street called for police when two snakes occupied her porch and kept her from leaving her home. The cruiser was dispatched to the house but the snakes had gone when the police arrived. Another boy was bitten in the Brandt Island area recently and was treated at St. Luke's Hospital.

Chief Kinney said that this flurry of snake reports in such a short period is highly unusual. Parents are requested to warn children to avoid tall grass and to give snakes a wide berth if they sight any. Snake bites have been extremely rare in Mattapoisett. Chief Kinney said that he can never recall this many.

The Home and Community Service chairmen, Heather Lenz and Karen Ramos, passed out little cloth bags to each Junior, and they are to bring them in at the June 25th meeting with a penny an inch in measurement for their waist line.

Tentative plans for a food sale for Saturday, June 19th, were made.

The following officers for 1966 were elected and will take their office in September: Wayne Sylvia, master; Mark Harris, overseer; Joseph Alves, lecturer; John Alves, steward; James Sullivan, assistant steward; Mark Breton, chaplain; Neil Sylvia, treasurer; Dorothy Wheeler, secretary; William Sylvia, gatekeeper; Gail Bauer, Ceres; Kimberly Lenz, Pomona; Elizabeth Bauer, Flora; Regan Lenz, lady assistant steward; Edward McCartin, flag bearer; and Kathy Costa, Mark Trow and Michael Allain, executive committee.

Karen Ramos and Kathy Costa were hostesses and served refreshments.

OPPOSING VIEWS - EDITORIAL

Just for the record, we want to state something which almost everyone takes for granted.

My opposition to the zoning plan was based solely on the merits of that proposal. No reflection was meant upon its sponsors.

Our system of town government depends upon people who can hold honest, opposing opinions which they can express publicly.

clergyman has the opportunity to address over one thousand persons!

The Archdiocese of Boston had granted a dispensation from the laws of fast and abstinence to the guests attending the dinner. The dinner chairman, Mr. John J. Buckley, greeted the guests, and presented the Toastmaster, General Robert Cutler, former Special Assistant to former President Eisenhower, who introduced Governor John A. Volpe, who spoke briefly, and introduced Senator Saltonstall.

Mr. Nixon seemed in great form. He has lost a few pounds and he brought laughter when he commented that Massachusetts has had a reputation for having considerable to do with election of Presidents, which he, certainly, knew to be true, referring, of course, to his 1960 defeat by the late President John F. Kennedy. He stressed the need for Party unity, saying that Republican Liberals alone, and Republican Conservatives alone, cannot win.

Mr. Nixon came within 118,450 votes of election in 1960, and many consider him a likely contender for the Republican nomination in 1968 Mrs. Borden whispered to Mr. Paull that a Nixon-Dominick team would suit her. Mr. Paull seemed to think it was a little early to commit the Convention! Hon. Peter H. Dominick is United States Senator from Colorado.

Mr. Nixon commented that Republicans are supporting President Johnson's Vitenam and Dominican Republic action, but that his noisiest critics are members of his Democratic Party. He thinks Republicans should come up with constructive proposals for an Asian alliance and to strengthen the Latin American alliance. He thinks President Johnson's domestic policy is moving more and more toward federal control and that individual freedom is involved.

Mr. Richardson followed Mr. Nixon. He expressed great pleasure with all that the dinner committee had done, and because so many friends and political associates were present, including his superior officer, Governor Volpe, and associate constitutional officers, some being Democrats, who were roundly applauded when named by the Toastmaster.

An encouraging sign was the presence of many persons in their twenties and thirties. Sumner Whittier, who has not been conspicuous on the Massachusetts political scene since 1956, was a head-table guest, as was former Governor, Robert F. Bradford. The occasion closed with Benediction by Rt. Rev. Edward G. Murray, Pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Roslindale.

TESTING RESULTS - CENTER SCHOOL

The annual Standardized Achievement Testing Program at the Center School in Mattapoisett has been completed and the results are very gratifying.

The Stanford Achievement Test Battery administered this year consisted of seven sub-tests covering the topics of Word Meaning (Vocabulary) Paragraph Meaning (Reading Comprehension), Spelling, Language, Arithmetic Computation, Arithmetic Concepts and Arithmetic Application.

The results show that the average scores of the pupils of Center School were higher than the National average scores in each sub-test in each grade.

The highest scores in each grade were made in the Language test. This test covered such topics as: Usage, Punctuation, Capitalization, Dictionary Skills, and Sentence Sense. The high Language test scores reflect a combination of home background, curriculum content, and the intensity and persistency of instruction.

Although the over-all results of the Arithmetic computation test were comfortably above the National average, they were the lowest of all the sub-tests. However, the Arithmetic Computation test results in the sixth grade were second highest of all the sixth grade sub-tests. This indicates that the pupils attending Junior High School next September will be well prepared.

The Stanford Achievement Test was developed to measure the important knowledges, skills, and understandings commonly accepted as desirable outcomes of the major branches of the elementary curriculum. The tests are intended to provide dependable measures of these outcomes comparable from subject to subject and grade to grade, for use in connection with improvement of instruction, pupil guidance, and evaluation of progress. The tests have been planned with a view toward simplicity of administration, scoring and interpretation.
